Choosing the Right Hip Guide

Sta-Rite™ Multi-Axis Adjustable Hip Guides come in 3 types so any client can be properly fitted.

The most significant advantage of the Standard 6 Axis Adjustable Hip Guide is it can be positioned outside and over the hardware so the patient is not squeezed or forced to buy a new, wider chair.

The Standard 6 Axis Adjustable & Bariatric have Track that allows them to be moved back and forth and to accommodate more complex client needs. The Economy version does not have a Track. To change the position of the Economy guide, it needs to be mounted in a different place along the length of the chair side and this is not always possible.

Aluminum cones are used for positioning in and out, and are infinitely adjustable. The interlocking steel crowns on the Bariatric adjust to fixed positions on the crowns. All the Sta-Rite™ Hip Guides can be easily adjusted up and down. Once positioned, the locking set clamp makes easy to return to the desired position.

The pads on Sta-Rite™ Hip Guides can be angled if desired. The Guides with Tracks can also be positioned - forward or rearward along the leg. When forward, they can act as a Knee Button as well.
